Digital Common Wealth

The Digital Common Wealth project aims to create:

Four Community Media Clusters in the North East, the East, the Central West and the South West of Scotland delivering community media cafes and digital storytelling workshops focused on audio, video, blogging and social media. It will also facilitate a number of community media cluster meet-ups across Scotland.

A School's programme involving primary and secondary pupils from across Scotland's 32 local authorities, delivering in-school workshops on digital storytelling using audio, video, blogging and social media with supporting hard and e-copy learning materials.

Using expertise in documentary film, creative writing and community songwriting, the Digital Common Wealth will deliver three Creative Voices projects involving participatory workshops and benefitting individuals and groups in four areas around University of the West of Scotland campuses (Dumfries, Ayrshire, Lanarkshire and Renfrewshire).

A community reporting initiative for the Queen's Baton Relay, involving individual beneficiaries and project partners, showcasing the rich tapestry of Scotland's response to the Commonwealth Games.
